

Tank artillery

Tanks were sometimes used as short-range artillery pieces when regular artillery support was unavailable.

Armor units may fire during the Bombardment Phase as artillery with a range of 1. The unit fires with half of its normal FPs (round up). This costs 1 Supply and the firing unit becomes committed and spotted. Because armor units were not properly trained or equipped for the artillery role, they may not fire as artillery during the Fire & Maneuver Phase.